Congress are hearing from their conplies to more than thirty of the Senlives, for this fall comes the first general election for United States Sena-tors under the seventeenth constitutional amendment.

Many Republican Senators have sig-nified their intention not to delay trust legislation, most of them explaining publicly that Congress is tired, and that statesmen are not in condition to do their best work. "We need a rest" is the declaration of the Republicans; likewise it is the slogan of some df the Democrats. It is an open secret, however, that behind the desire for rest is a desire on the part of Repub-lican Senators, as well as Democrats,

PUBLICITY

Sure Cure for Corporate Diseases. As Necessary as Light and Air in Hos-

The startling disclosures of corporate mismanangement in the last ten years have brought about & general feeling that publicity of corporation affairs is both necessary and desirable for the future well-being of all corporations. This publicity may be affected in many ways and should give the public as well as the stockholders such information as will eliminate all possible chance for corruption and mismanagement.

In the past, managers of some corporations have operated their business in a more or less arrogant fashion, persistently refusing to make their acts known to the public or even to their stockholders. In most instances if these operations had been made public at the time, many of the ills from which they are now suffering would not have occurred, and millions of dellars of investment would have been saved.

The effect of corporate mismanagement is greatly magnified, however, when its discovery comes too late by governmental investication. Generally speaking, if the facts were voluntarily made public, or if they were made known through established methods of publicity, in the regular course of business, the mismanasement of the corporation would never occur or it could be remedied immediately and the bad effect of it would be comparatively small.

And so it is with many houses of business—in the field of commerce and manufacture. They are afraid of publicity—afraid to have their factories examined and to let purchasers verify statements or facts concerning the goods. The only conclusion to be reached in such case Is that the manufacturer has something to conceal, which if discovered, would not bear out his assertions.

Publicity in relation to all business matters is the best cure for their evils, but as light and air kill the merny of the stabilished and to be the proposed matters is the best cure for their evils.

Publicity in relation to all business matters is the best cure for their evils, just as light and air kill the germs of disease.
